BODY CONSTRUCTION FEATURES

- Computer-aided design.
- All-steel construction (except cowl panel).
- Body-frame integral construction for outstanding structural rigidity and excellent durability.
- Comprised of underbody structure, front end structure, left- and right-hand side panel structures and a roof panel structure.
- Longitudinal side rails, cross sills and outriggers form the integral frame to which front and rear floor panels are welded, completing the underbody structure. Main structural members are of heavy-gage steel. A step well is incorporated in the underbody in the area adjacent to the front doors and sliding side door to provide convenient entry and exit.
- Floor panel provides for available underfloor spare tire carrier.

- Engine compartment with inside opening hood panel allows quick access to service points such as engine, radiator, brake system, battery and windshield washer reservoir.
- The radiator support upper tie bar is mechanically attached to facilitate engine removal.
- A plenum chamber with high-level air intake is utilized in the front end structure to assure a plentiful supply of dry, outside air for interior heating and ventilating as well as to add rigidity to the overall body structure. Air outlets to the interior are provided on the left-hand and right-hand sides by manually controlled doors (RH door omitted with optional air conditioning).
- Bolt-on front fenders for ease of serviceability.

SIDE PANEL STRUCTURES

- Seamless, one-piece outer panels reinforced with one-piece inner panel construction.
- Roof is welded to side panels.

- Improved body seals (weatherstrips) body mounted at front and side doors.
- On-line water test to eliminate leaks.

Special attention is given to corrosion prevention during the construction and final finishing of the body. The following body design features occur during the construction of the body:

- Use of special steel (galvanized, zinc iron alloy, zinc coated) for body components especially subject to corrosion.
 - All exterior body panels (except roof) are two-side galvanized.
 - Use of one-piece outer panels, eliminating exterior joints where corrosion might occur.
 - Use of heavy-gage steel for main underbody components.
 - One-piece opening frame construction eliminates lap joints and other potential corrosion areas.
 - No exposed welds.
- After body construction is completed, additional corrosion prevention steps are taken in the final finishing operation.
- The body, doors and hood are thoroughly cleaned through a 7-stage phosphate wash (4 immersion stages, 3 wash stages).
 - Next, body, doors and hood are primed by the uni-prime process.
 - Sealers are applied to all critical interior/exterior joints.
 - The body, doors and hood are painted with base coat/clear coat enamel.
 - An anti-chip coating along the lower body sides is added which extends from the rear of the front wheel openings to the rear door openings to prevent stone chipping.

- The radiator support upper tie bar is mechanically attached to facilitate engine removal.

Air outlets to the interior are provided on the left-hand and right-hand sides by manually controlled doors (RH door omitted with optional air conditioning).
- Bolt-on front fenders for ease of serviceability.

- Use of special steel (galvanized, zinc iron alloy, zinc coated) for body components especially subject to corrosion.
- All exterior body panels (except roof) are two-side galvanized.
- Use of one-piece outer panels, eliminating exterior joints where corrosion might occur.
- Use of heavy-gage steel for main underbody components.
- One-piece opening frame construction eliminates lap joints and other potential corrosion areas.
- No exposed welds.

After body construction is completed, additional corrosion prevention steps are taken in the final finishing operation.

- Next, body, doors and hood are primed by the uni-prime process.
- Sealers are applied to all critical interior/exterior joints.
- The body, doors and hood are painted with base coat/clear coat enamel.
